Documentation

First Quality Restoration believes in documentation and proof of the work performed. That is why digital cameras are used to document the damage upon arrival and psychrometric readings to prove the moisture content of the air. Non-penetrating and penetrating meters are also used to check wall cavities, flooring, and sub-floor moisture content. These are done everyday until dry out is complete and documented for the customer and/or insurance company. Keeping liability to a minimum is a huge advantage in this business, and the peace of mind that the customer receives is second to none.
